- 12:19:51 From Tori VandeLinde : Thanks for sharing, Alisha!
- 12:21:48 From Catherine Connolly : I'm not familiar with all the lingo. What is Delta Impact? Also, do you have objectives and/or measurement in any of your programs or programming regarding the pay gap?
- 12:23:26 From Tori VandeLinde : The slides and recording for the web conference that features Alaska's economic support work is available at <http://www.preventconnect.org/2018/11/getting-started-on-supporting-economic-opportunity-for-sexual-and-domestic-violence-prevention/>

- 12:45:53 From Jody Sanborn : The link Alisha provided is for the 2015 report
- 12:46:11 From Kathleen Palmer : Thank you!
- 12:56:38 From Traci Underwood : I think a lot about how to change the behavior of employers in my work at WSCADV (WA state coalition). In addition to working on policies statewide we are also building relationships with unions and other workers rights groups. I'd love to know what others are doing to address this issue in your states! How are y'all engaging with employers/workers?
- 12:58:45 From Tiffany Eskelson-Maestas : Traci - I love this idea, especially in consideration of the history of working with unions and workers rights groups early on in the movement. Have you all just identified who those are in your state and then reaching out to them?
- 13:04:04 From Sarah Ehrhard Reid : One program we have in Missouri doing similar financial literacy, economic advocacy, and other financial programs is ROW in St. Louis.

- 13:15:12 From Traci Underwood : Tiffany-- Your collective impact work sounds similar to what we are trying to do in WA. Many of our relationships with Labor came from mutual interests in the policies we were supporting or fighting and grew from there. Your comment about making that mistake of undervaluing your expertise (your not the expert wage gap comment) resonates. One thing we have found helpful in building these partnerships is to say 'here is what we do/here are our connections. what can we do for you? How can we show up for your people in a helpful way?' and that allows us then to say, great. This is how we would like you to show up for us.
- 13:22:07 From Catherine Connolly : Jody, can you make sure that this chat with the links is available after the call is ended? There are some great links and comments! Thanks,
- 13:23:07 From Alisha Somji : Just wanted to make sure folks have seen Prevention Institute's economic security and intimate partner violence prevention brief. We wrote it in the Californian context but it has applicability beyond <https://www.preventioninstitute.org/publications/economic-security-and-safe-relationships-pathways-and-actions-partner-violence>
- 13:23:14 From Jody Sanborn : Absolutely! This is also being recorded so we'll be sure to send it out to everyone who registered.
- 13:30:11 From Alisha Somji : In August, we'll be doing another web conference on economic security for PreventConnect. Be sure to keep your eyes out for that!
- 13:30:22 From Tiffany Eskelson-Maestas : Thank you Alisha!
- 13:30:38 From Linda Hawkins : Wyoming uses FVPSA & Allstate funds to support our Economic Justice work.
- 13:30:39 From Chani Waterhouse : Thank you Jody!
- 13:31:09 From Alisha Somji : thanks!!
